

eFossils website instructions

To get the best view of the skulls of the various species you will need to examine, follow the instructions below:

1. Go to the eFossils site using the link on the lab webpage;
2. Click on Comparative Anatomy at the top of the homepage;
3. Click on Cranium on the far left to select this part of the skeleton;
4. Click on the hominid species you want to observe from the menu;
5. Increase the size of the view by clicking on the + in top left of viewing screen;
6. Click on Morphology on left side of page to bring up labeled features; and then click on any feature on the left for a description and highlight on the skull visual;
7. When done with your observations and data gathering, click on Reset in the top right and repeat procedure from Step 3.
